House of Representatives of The Netherlands

11 September 2026, The Netherlands

Dear members of the House of Representatives of The Netherlands,

This letter is regarding the research by Investico and RTL nieuws. Article here: Klemgereden, achtervolgd of gestalkt: familierechtadvocaten vrezen voor veiligheid

We, citizens of The Netherlands, delegate the responsibility to protect each other and safeguard the democracy to moral systems; to you, the moral system that the House of Representatives of the Netherlands is, we delegate the responsibility of coming up with laws that in part guarantee safety and security. But also, to deliver justice. All types:

- Distributive Justice
- Procedural Justice
- Retributive Justice
- Restorative Justice

Show me you're worth that delegation. Femicide is a huge and unacceptable problem. What I see here is that trash human beings that commit forms of femicide, proceed to expand their evil to the lawyers that try to protect the victims: The women that are suffering. The lawyers that try to protect on behalf of us, society. You want to tell me you don't care that women are protected? Or that lawyers are attacked at home? And a mere "stop gesprek" by the police is enough, according to you?

And then justice for the lawyers: Retributive and restorative justice. What about meester Özge Öztürk? Is she going to be given justice by society? Are we sleeping politicians?

Looking at the list of atrocities, I believe enough is enough:

- bangalijsten
- Rapes in female prisons and other atrocities: No physical/psychosocial safety guaranteed
- Dutch childcare benefits scandal
- Eindhoven water cannon incident
- Tara...

The intervention should consist of much stricter laws regarding the freedom one is given in The Netherlands. This means for individuals that visit the homes of our attorneys, for example, one year in prison or something close to this, no excuses. Just an example to be given. No slap on the wrist, but life-changing measures. Better, more effective laws that shut down a situation to stop individuals from intruding on the lives of the professionals that work to keep our democracy working. But also provide retributive and restorative justice for the victims: Attorneys, public servants and women in general. No more soft approach, but ruthless interventions and making a statement. I hope that that will prevent vigilantes from starting to hunt down these individuals that think they live in a different context with different rules applying to them.

The only thing I can threaten you with is to go to the international community to ask for an audit of the Dutch democracy to prevent a certain downfall. Certain responsibilities were delegated, entrusted to you. I don't see the respect given it deserves. In addition: Prevention of human rights violations. For that, of course, we have the European Court of Human Rights.

Looking at judges during the Dutch childcare benefits scandal we can see that the sorry culture is back in full: You are "doomed to freedom". So a judge could have resigned. But instead they became part of the banality of evil, the engine of destruction that the CAF had created; they let grow by becoming part of that dynamic. Judges... human rights were violated... Really? (That chapter is not closed yet, and I will go after all the judges of The Netherlands for a justification why, at the very least, they didn't urge for room to have power to interfere other than resign).

I am a citizen of The Netherlands. I represent the highest authority: The institute citizenship. I merely delegate my responsibility until that is no longer deserved by the moral systems in society I delegate to. That time has come: I take back that responsibility that was always still mine and will get to work to protect our democracy and the wellbeing of people in and of the Netherlands, because politicians and public servants have failed blatantly.
